STANDARD BEARERS HOLD THEIR ANNUAL PICNIC
Monday evening in a little grove on Myrtle street, the senior division of Standard Bearers held their annual picnic. At 6:30 a family dinner enjoyed a beautiful supper, for each had come with a well filled basket.
Later in the evening the company adjourned to Mrs. Herbert Beck's home just across the street, where a better business session was held presided over by the president, Mrs. Chas. Beck. Mrs. P. C. Richards, the superintendent announced that July 19th the Janesville Standard Bearers had been invited to Mrs. Miller's home near Milton Junction to attend a joint session of the Women's Service and the Standard Bearers of Canton Junction, Ohio Creek and Janesville.
It was planned to give an entertainment for the public at the next month 15 meeting and Mrs. Herbert Beck was appointed Chairman of Committee of arrangements. The date of the annual picnic meeting was announced for Oct. 10th at Milwaukee. For new members were added to the roll, Mrs. (Mrs.) Dillingham, Principal of the girls' school at Piqua, Ohio, who was present and gave an informal talk concerning the girls' undergarments. She had several post cards with pictures of Korean people, also a number of coins used by them which she gave to the members, and she enjoyed the privilege of hearing the Williamson again before she returns to Korea.
Guests present from out of town besides Miss Dillingham were Miss Alice Dillingham from Marion, Ind., Mrs. "Ma" Atkinson of Canton, Ill., both former members of the society.

MEETING OF OFFICIALS OF RED CROSS CHAPTER
GENERAL MEET JULY 8

IMPORTANT MEETING OF JANESVILLE CHAPTER OF AMERICAN RED CROSS HELD AT POSTOFFICE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Formal Organization of an Executive Board Will Take Place at General Meeting to be Held on July Eighth.

An important meeting of officials of different branches of the Red Cross organization in the county gathered at the postoffice building yesterday afternoon for the purpose of reorganizing the executive board of that body.
The meeting was presided over by the president of the Janesville chapter, Mr. Ira Worlandyke, and also included Judge Fitch, from the local bar, and representatives from the different branches in the county.
The following are the auxiliaries and their chairmen: Edgerton, P. O. Fitch, Janesville; Mrs. F. O. Worlandyke, Janesville; Postville, George Bash; Johnson and Rock Prairie, Mrs. D. J. McFarley; Lima Center, O. A. Millard; Avalon, Mrs. George L. Scott; La Prairie, Mrs. William Morton; school for the blind, J. H. Hooper; Milton, Grant W. Davis; Milton Junction, F. W. Warner.
It had been felt for some time by the board of directors of the local chapter that the branches ought to be reorganized on the basis of the organization. At a meeting of the executive board on June 15 resolutions to that effect were passed and a circular letter prepared to send to the chairmen of the different branches asking them to be present at a meeting. The following is part of said letter:
The executive committee of Janesville chapter has felt for a long time that a reorganization should be made in its personnel, in order to give the branches proper representation on the executive board. The plan which seems best to us is at the meeting of June 25 to decide to elect a board of directors composed of two representatives of each branch, one of these two to be branch chairman. From this board of directors elect chapter officers. Appoint five members, one of whom shall be chairman of the chapter. The committee on hospital supplies, surgical dressing, knitting, etc., to be composed of say five members each, no branch to have more than one representative on each committee.
Other matters were contained in the letter as to the proper method of dissolving the present board and other details.
At the meeting yesterday these matters were fully discussed by those present and a motion passed that the body proceed to organize along the lines suggested, and that two directors from each branch be elected to meet and elect officers at a future date.
It was found upon inquiry that many of the branches will have a meeting within a week, so a date was set for a general meeting on July 8 at 3:30 p. m. at the room in the postoffice. At that time formal organization of an executive board and election of officers will take place.

A general discussion took place concerning affairs pertaining to the business of the chapter. The chairman asked for by each chairman. It was explained, for the general quota of garments or articles desired each month was ascertained by inquiry of each chairman. They were asked how much their branches could furnish. The increase in Red Cross work and the higher prices paid for material leaves little or no margin for the need of conserving the fund, that the quotas could be provided when asked for was also mentioned. It was felt by those present that the general meeting of members from the different auxiliaries would be most helpful and would give them information to meet some of the problems which they encounter in their Red Cross work. More publicity in different departments was also counseled, that the public might know of the inner workings of the work.
Before the chairman of the different branches there were several other people present at the meeting who are interested in Red Cross work, they being Mrs. Hawk and Mrs. A. C. Rock Prairie; Mrs. Gould and Mrs. Boyd; Lima Center; Mrs. P. L. Chesbro, La Prairie; Mrs. W. A. Dean, Avalon, and Mrs. Coon, Edgerton.

Emerson Jackson, of this city, who is stationed at Camp Wadsworth, Spartanburg, S. C., has written a very interesting letter to his parents in this city telling them of the work that is being done by the men in that camp. His letter follows:
Camp Wadsworth, June 21.
Dear Folks: Received your welcome letter and package yesterday. The package came through in fine shape. I wish you would send some tobacco as we are most out of it here as the canteens have sold out in preparation of moving. We expect to move in at least a week.
I have been selected as one of the four from my company to be in the intelligence section which is to go to the morning at 7:30 I go to the Y. M. C. A. for a lecture and take notes. If you could get me a nice note book I would like it very much.
After the lecture we go to another place and under the direction of a sergeant major from the Canadian army we are taught how to go to a French and German class and then to a signal class. We are taught how to sketch and draw maps. The officer told us that when we get out of the army we would all be able to take civil engineers' positions.
We also do sketching of enemy territory and sniping, which is lying in wait or observation post and picking off the enemy as they appear to you. These men were picked because of their shooting on the range. They rained all day today and they looked like drowned rats.
Well I will close for this time, and please write me often.
EMERSON JACKSON.

School boys are being urged to spend their summer vacation on farms and acquire experience, if they have not already had it.
If experienced laborers can not be reached, the younger men of the country with a little experience must be placed on farms. Boys from the public schools are working on farms this year and are fast acquiring the knowledge of farmers.
Farmers who have not made use of these willing boys are urged to do so.
If you wish to work on a farm, apply to the Farm Labor Agency No. 150, at the Janesville Daily Gazette, for information.

Chicago, June 26.—The pendulum of cattle prices is they look for the $18 mark to be outdistanced in the near future.
Some complaint is coming from the east about the high price of choice beef, and now that the hotels have been put on limited rations, the demand is not so urgent, but receipts of that class of cattle are exceptionally small and the leading traders here on both sides of the market rapidly swinging back to the former position.
All but the common light grassy grades have recovered the loss sustained last week by reason of the excessive receipts. Demand for anything with weight and quality is very strong and reliable and sellers are so optimistic regarding the market for good, well finished steers that look for still higher prices for the top notch class in the next thirty days.
Many medium and ordinary steers that were hard to sell last week are quoted now 50 to 75c higher and are wanted at the price. Buyers are gradually getting rid of the surplus of common beef, and the result is reflected in the better outlet for the light weight grassy steers.
Hogs met with very active demand and sold 15c to 20c higher. Receipts were estimated at 22,000, a decrease of 11,000 from the previous Tuesday, and scarcely large enough to fill the buying demand. Top was $17.75.
Steady prices were paid for lambs, with the market slow and dull. The best springers reached $18.60 and six loads of Idaho range lambs brought $13.40.

Babies of Germans' Girl Victims Are A Big Problem to France

Husbands and fiancées of violated young women meet tragic situation. Recently and those none of their devotion, but what of little ones future? Rheta Childs Dorr asks.

SOLDIER'S MOTHER IN FRANCE
By Rheta Childs Dorr.
XII.

I have written of a house of mourning in Paris, where women and girl victims of German soldiers find shelter. With Madame Viville St. Croix, a managing director, I visited the house on an implacable foe of any peace treaty on terms of extinction of the war that caused this war.

"We have very few here now," said Madame St. Croix. I mean, compared with the first two years of the war, when the Germans think themselves victorious they are ruthless in their treatment of women and of civilians generally. When they are losing they are less cruel.

I am glad that I did not see the last fruits of German wrath. I do not understand how any one who did see it can ever smile or be happy again.

What I have seen in the wrath and temper of a beaten foe, I saw in the isolation pavilion of that house of mercy, seventeen girls in a condition of health which made it impossible for them to associate with others.

This pavilion had room for twice as many, and in former times, from 1914 to 1916, this one refuge was crowded, crowded with ruined and distressed French and Belgian girls. Now the German army has been driven back, and the opportunity for such bestiality was never so great.

There were only seventeen girls in the isolation pavilion of that house of mercy in Paris. The youngest girl was fourteen.

A Room of Tragedy
They have comfortable rooms, a little parlor with books and a piano, and a kind and devoted house mother. She is a teacher as well as the education of those pathetic young creatures is carried on daily, as though they had a normal destiny, as indeed some of them have. Recovery from their dire misdeeds is not impossible, and the best medical care in Paris is given them freely.

In another pavilion of this house I saw another group of girls much better off. They had lived through horrors, but their health was somewhat preserved. The youngest of these girls was twelve years old, and the oldest was twenty. They had been two years in the house.

I think I have never seen a more tragic figure than this little girl. Her face was white and solemn and her eyes were old. She seldom spoke.

While we were looking at the sewing work and some of the girls were busy making up tea, a friend of the house came in to play the piano for the girls to sing. This is her regular contribution to the work. They sang, these poor little larks, standing around the piano, singing of home and love and all things beautiful.

Victim A Child
I sat and listened and thought of poor little America, where the war is still little more than an abstraction, a fact hardly realized except by the mothers and fathers and wives of men who have gone over.

Believe it was unworthy of a reporter, but the sight of those young French girls who have been forced in the most rustic fashion possible, to realize what this war means was for the moment more than I could bear. I slipped away and ran to the southeast end of the enclosed garden.

There, out of the sound of their voices, I sat down and let the most unbearable part of the pain flow away in tears. As I sat there on the garden bench I heard a little soft exclamation. Looking up I saw the youngest girl, the little one who at ten years had had her life wrecked by a Hun. She was crying, more than once, for all I know. This child with the white, solemn face and the old eyes stood there, pitying me for a trouble she did not understand. But for her there was but one trouble, and she assumed that I was weeping for that. She reached out a timid little hand and laid it on my knee.

"Ah, Madame," she whispered, "is it not terrible, the war?"

Babies Careful For
It is terrible, but it has brought to the surface a heroism and a grandeur of soul that few of us knew the French people possessed. I asked Mme. St. Croix to tell me of the women and girls who had been children to the German invaders. "What will you do with those boys babies?" I asked her.

"We shall assimilate them," she said proudly. And she added that the mothers, married or unmarried, as a rule loved their forlorn little babies. "I have known of only two women who wished to get rid of their children," she assured me.

Nature is stronger than convention. The heart of woman is a mother heart and nothing can ever change it. It is the heart of those children, intruders in the family, that I do not know.

What has happened to thousands of women and girls in invaded Belgium and France could just as well happen in this country. It would happen without the smallest doubt if the Huns landed on our shores. Can you imagine what it would be, fathers and mothers of America, to stand with their arms leveled at your heads while beasts in human form violated your young daughters before your eyes?

Never Forget.
Can you imagine it would be for our soldiers to come home from the war and find their wives and daughters with German babies in their arms? This is what many French and Belgian soldiers have had to endure. You will not persuade any of these men to listen to arguments in favor of a peace without victory.

All over in France, you will see in the houses of the French, on blank walls a poster: "Frenchmen, never forget!" In the upper right-hand corner of the poster is a picture of some woman in this country that has happened since the German hordes began to overrun the world.

In the lower left-hand corner of the poster is a picture of a smooth German salesman twining to sell something in France. "Frenchmen, never forget!" They never will forget. They have tenacious memories. Our French allies.

Have Long Memories
Can any one who has visited Paris forget the statue of Strasbourg in the place de la Concorde? It is one of eight splendid monuments in that square, each representing a city of France. When the Germans fled from Alsace and Lorraine from France, after the war of 1870, Strasbourg was left to the French. On that day they laid funeral wreaths on the statue in the Place de la Concorde, and they have kept funeral wreaths there ever since.

Until August, 1914. Then they took away the emblem of mourning, because they knew Strasbourg would again be theirs. The statue is with flowers now, and with flags of all the allies. Our flag is there, the flag the French call le drapeau étoilé, the be-starred banner. "May I stay there until what it has come to France for has been accomplished, until the utterly crushed and vanquished German army has been pushed beyond the Rhine, and the mothers of the women of France and of martyred Belgium have endured has been paid for."

Not in the same coin, however. The men who have suffered so bravely are incapable of such crimes.

Make Your Dollar Earn Twice What It Did, for It Buys Only Half As Much

THE purchasing power of a dollar has decreased. You know that, because day after day for the last year you have been getting less sugar, less meat, less flour, less of everything for the dollar you spend.

To offset the fact that your dollar buys so little today, you should place your money where it will earn 6% and be just as safe as if it were in a vault.

Years ago when the cost of living was less than one-half what it is today, 3% was considered a fair interest for money to earn, but today, when the necessities of life cost just about double what they used to cost, your money should earn twice as much interest.

You have worked hard for your money and you should make your money work hard for you.

The way to make your money work hard for you is to invest it in SAFE securities that pay 6%—first mortgage 6% bonds safeguarded under the Straus Plan—that banks, insurance companies and trustees of estates buy. The far-seeing investor does this.

First Mortgage 6% Bonds safeguarded under the Straus Plan are in every case a direct first mortgage on high-class income earning property—land and buildings—in the best districts of large and prosperous cities in the United States. They can be bought in amounts of $100, $500 and $1,000.

It will tell you how to invest your money so that when you are old you will have an income to give you all the comforts and many of the luxuries that make life worth living. It will tell you all about the Straus Plan—how this house has safeguarded investments of hundreds of millions of dollars for 36 years without loss of a dollar of interest or principal to any client who purchased bonds from us.

BONDS SAFEGUARDED UNDER THE STRAUS PLAN do not contain one element of speculation. They are safe. They are strong-box securities to be put away and forgotten except to clip and cash the interest coupons twice a year.

McCall vs. Weeks may be bay state battle

[BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS]
Boston, Mass., June 25.—Gov. Samuel McCall will back Sen. Weeks for the republican nomination for the United States Senate this fall if a campaign is made by McCall's trustees in all parts of Massachusetts leads the veteran to think he can win.

In case McCall goes in, the greatest republican party fight ever waged in the state or a nomination will take place, as McCall has been out for weeks' scalp ever since the Boston financier sidetracked his senatorial ambitions in 1913 by getting the state legislature to send him to Washington instead of McCall.

At that time McCall did not send Weeks a letter of congratulation and it was the only bitter pill he has taken in a long political career. Nothing would suit the Massachusetts governor better than to beat Weeks at a popular election.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fifteen years old. I live in a small town and am not very popular. Do you think it would be proper for me to have a little so that I might be more popular? All my girl friends do.

ZENOBIA ACASIA.

It never pays to flirt. A girl who does it to become popular defeats her own purpose because she gains a bad reputation which keeps desirable boys away.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What should a girl do when she is out riding with several couples and a boy tries to kiss her and she doesn't want him to?

She should refuse to kiss him. It would attract less attention and more favorable attention than to let him have his own way. If he had one he would want more and then his conduct would be very noticeable.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fifteen years old and I am going to church picnic. I don't care to go with boys much, but I don't like to go alone. I don't want to go alone. I have several boy friends who are very nice and I have escorted one home from a party before. Would it be all right to ask this boy to go to the picnic?

Write the boy a note and ask him if he would come to go to the picnic. He will have time to think it over before he answers and if he accepts you may be sure he would like to do.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fifteen years old and have been going with a soldier of twenty-four. He told me that he loved me and asked me to marry him. I have been with him for a while and I want to know if I should marry him or not.

Write him a note and tell him that you are not ready to marry him yet. You are too young to be married and you should wait until you are older.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is it all right for a girl to go with a boy who was once her sister's fellow? I am a girl fifteen years old.

(2) Is it all right for a boy to take a girl's arm when he is taking her home?

(1) Yes, it is all right. Very often a boy goes with each of two sisters. You are too young to go with boys, however.

(2) It is better form for him to take her arm only when they are crossing streets.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are fifteen years old and in high school. We will be sophomores next year. We have had several engagements and we are all very happy. But our mothers do not know it.

(1) Do you think it advisable for us to go with them? The boys are good friends of our parents. What would you advise us to do?

(2) Should we tell our parents about them?

JACK AND WILLIE.

(1) It is not all right for you to go with the boys when your parents know nothing about it. It would be bad enough to do such a thing with their consent. In the future tell the boys that you are too young to accept their invitations.

(2) Tell your parents about the boys. It might be the best thing to do. They will be able to help you in the future.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl fifteen years old and I am going to church picnic. I don't care to go with boys much, but I don't like to go alone. I don't want to go alone. I have several boy friends who are very nice and I have escorted one home from a party before. Would it be all right to ask this boy to go to the picnic?

Write the boy a note and ask him if he would come to go to the picnic. He will have time to think it over before he answers and if he accepts you may be sure he would like to do.

The Little Mother of Shack 3

THE GREATER SORROW.

Chapter III.

"But, Doctor Will, we've tried everything. She simply won't be soothed. She keeps us up all night long, and that's the worst thing for her. She doesn't eat or sleep, and we're half frantic. She wouldn't even see Stephen Terrace when he came yesterday. She won't see any one. But if you'd just happen in—"

It was Sally's sister Florence telephoning Willard Rolf. Phillipsburg loved Dr. Rolf with peculiar fervor. There were other physicians in the town, but they made a slender living. People called Rolf the "drugless doctor" for he treated their souls without dosing their bodies.

Men like him because he talked them into feeling young and getting rid of aches and pains by gymnastics and wholesome diet. Women said he was "understood" them. He let them talk. He uplifted their spirits and encouraged them to be happy. Often he told them why they weren't and pointed the way.

Every one respected Rolf and his knowledge of medicine, which was so great that he knew its limitations. He came now to see Sally Orme whose books he had carried to school for her (whenever Steve Terrace hadn't got ahead of him) and whose grief he understood and felt as his own.

"Well, girl," he began, narrowing his blue eyes at Sally lying tense and hollow-eyed upon her pillow. "What are we doing—losing our sense of proportion?"

Sally made no answer, except to close her eyes and turn her head away. He took her wrist between his thumb and finger, counting a moment, then set it down upon the coverlet with a friendly pat.

"Feverish," he said. "I'm ashamed of you, Sarah." He almost never called her by her sober Christian name, which she hated. "I'm ashamed of you," he went on, "because you're not this sort of girl. You're by nature the capable, active type, with red blood and a good digestive. You're forgetting you have something the world's great sorrow in your small one. Oh, it's big enough, little comrade, I'm not blind or stupid."

"But after all, you are only one. In Europe there's hardly a family that is not enduring unpeakable sadness. Thousands over there have lost not only their love, but their youth and hope and usefulness. Don't you know, little Sally, that the saddest thing on earth is to be helpless—no longer useful?"

She was looking at him now. Despite herself, interest was kindling. Rolf went on gravely:

"I'm going, you know. I'm helping to organize a unit of doctors and nurses. Why aren't you working at it with me? You who have youth and health and ability and love—yes, love, for as you give out love you receive it. Isn't that love and gratitude of suffering men worth something to you—you, a graduate nurse?"

Sally answered with her eyes and her hand, which reached out and grasped his lean, muscular one and held it fast. He had struck the chord that always roused her—her excitement, her thoughts racing back to the time two years before when on the death of her mother she had quit her hospital job to keep house and look after the younger sister and brother. And to marry Steve Terrace.

"Your Aunt Libby will be glad to come and look after the home and the youngsters went on Rolf on a moment. It would be a good deal to her, Sally. Now I must go along. Think it over."

And with a quick smile and handshake he was gone.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

It very often happens you don't know what to do. And then the time the mischief man comes rolling round to you. He whispers something in your ear. You know you shouldn't stop to hear.

And then the time for you to say, "Oh, mischief man, please go away!"

This is what dear good Uncle Lucky wrote in Billy Bunny's story. For it was the little rabbit's birthday, you know, and Uncle Lucky thought he ought to warn him against the mischief man.

Now, as soon as the ink was dry so that the little rabbit could put the album away in Uncle Lucky's desk, the kind old gentleman rabbit said: "Let us take a ride in the Lucky-mobile. Maybe we can go some place where we will have a good time!"

So they got into the automobile and started off, and by and by they were on a shady spot in the woods. And there, right under a big spreading chestnut tree, was a little table covered with a clean white cloth and a lovely birthday cake with candles and big frosted letters, which read, "A Happy Birthday to Billy Bunny!"

And oh my, wasn't he delighted, and so were all the little forest folk.

"An' ain't you got a hull lot ob confidences in me, your pastor?"

"Ise sure got jes' dat, pastor. I sure has a mighty big chunk ob confidence in you."

"An' you thinks Ise a honest man an' all dat, an' when I says I'll do a certain thing dat I'll do that thero thing in de spite of Mikol an' all his devilish ways?"

"Swat the Rat!"

Since the introduction of the house rat in the United States they have become extremely abundant and widely distributed throughout the country, where they destroy annually many millions of dollars' worth of food products and crops. These losses occur alike in cities, villages and farmsteads. Their inroads upon food products occur in freight departments of railroads and steamboat lines, storage places of grain and food dealers, commission houses, wholesale drug houses, candy shops, bakeries, flour mills, cold-storage houses, city and country dwellings, granaries, fields and poultry yards. The loss of food and other products in the United States from this source amounts to not less than $200,000,000 annually, which amount does not include indirect losses occasioned by human disease disseminated by rats and the necessary expenditures in combating them.

DRIVE OUT BARBERRY FROM THIS SECTION

Southern Wisconsin Fast Eradicating
Dangerous Shrub—Three Counties Free.

Southwestern Wisconsin is fast eradicating the barberry shrub. Six counties in this section have been covered in the second canvass since a week ago to determine how many bushes have been removed, and three of the counties, Richland, Crawford and Green, have been found 100 per cent free.

The campaign is now being carried on in Rock, Jefferson, Dane, Sauk and Walworth counties. Rock county has been canvassed and the report shows a total of 1,200 bushes of the dangerous barberries found on private property. Jefferson county is even more interested with the report showing with 5,712 bushes reported, while Dane county has a total of 6,102.

In Janesville, 118 private owners report 532 bushes of the barberries. Janesville reports 24, Beloit 825 and Madison 252. Port Kiskadee has a total of 2,821 shrubs and Jefferson 223. Green county is touched very little in the second canvass. Monroe reports 29 and Breckinridge only five. These figures do not include bushes found in parks and public grounds.

The campaign over the state to remove the barberry is being carried on by the state department of agriculture under authority of the State Board of Agriculture in co-operation with the U. S. department of agriculture and the state university.

Just few shrubs remain in southern Wisconsin and these have been ordered out by law. The grubbing out of the barberry has been undertaken as a war measure to protect the grain crops.

On June 28th Prove You Are A Loyal American

Will you greet the Fourth of July with a free conscience?
Or will you spend the Fourth in shame-faced guilt?

June 28th has been set as National War Savings Day. Your country expects you on that day to pledge every penny you can, up to $1,000, toward the purchase of War Savings Stamps.

The price of American citizenship is no longer cheap. A new hour has struck. The crash of war has ground all semblance of cheapness out of being an American. It is now a dear-bought honor. You must pay.

On June 28th Your Country Asks You to Balance Your Patriotic Cash Account

Every penny you withhold, that you are able to give, extends aid and comfort to the enemy.

No sordid legal summons will, for the present, compel payment. You are called to payment by the higher, more chivalric summons to volunteer on June 28th your pledge to purchase this year every dollar's worth of War Savings Stamps you can buy.
